of all the foods you eat, carbohydrates are the most easily converted into glucose -- your body's preferred source of energy, and your brain's essential source of energy. Does building a well-established website such as yours require a lot of work? I am brand new to writing a blog however I do write in my journal on a daily basis. But responsible gun control and laws seem to just be outrageous and impossible to both parties.